TOMORROWLAND

Disneyland

D...“The Happiest Place on Earth”

Main Street, U.S.A.

Return to the happy days of yesteryear the moment you enter Walt Disney's Magic Kingdom. Here, you'll find yourself back in the carefree era of the 1890's on a typical small town Main Street—cornerstone of the American way of life. You'll fulfill many cherished dreams as you answer a "fire alarm" and clamber aboard the old-fashioned hose and chemical wagon. The horse-drawn trolleys... the surreys "with the fringe on top"... a 1905 horseless carriage... stores and exhibits reminiscent of a bygone era and a never to be forgotten way of life... all are a part of Disneyland's Main Street, U.S.A., the "heart-line of America."

Eager adventurers with hearty appetites find Disneyland's popcorn vendors and their shiny red wagons irresistible.

One of Main Street's horse-drawn streetcars is pulled at a leisurely pace by "Dobbin."

The harum-pa-pa of marching music quickens the steps and widens the smiles of Disneyland guests as the Disneyland Band parades up Main Street.

Disneyland Data

More than 900,000 people have signed the Disneyland Guest Register, located at the Plaza Apartments on Main Street, giving their home towns and addresses.

40% of all Disneyland visitors are from out of state, including visitors from 63 foreign countries.

The Disneyland Band gives 1460 concerts annually in Disneyland... and its leader, Vesey Walker, has won world-wide acclaim as band leader.

The average cost of a visit to Disneyland is $2.29, which includes admission to the Park, rides, amusements, souvenirs, and parking.

Disneyland's 5 Millionth guest was greeted on October 4, 1956, less than 15 months after the Park's Opening Day.

More than 900 Disneylanders representing 106 crafts, trades and professions are employed in the Park to make the visitors' day more enjoyable.

It takes a crew of more than 200 men — carpenters, craftsmen, artists, and artisans, painters, and electricians, to keep Disneyland spotless and in perfect operating order at all times.

24 restaurants and refreshment stands in Disneyland are equipped to serve approximately 8000 persons hourly.

Approximately 935,460 hot dogs were consumed by Disneyland guests in the first year after the park was opened.

Airline tickets can be bought from any place in the world direct to Disneyland... five helicopter flights arrive daily at the Disneyland heliport.

Disneyland horses punch time cards. No horse is allowed to work over four hours per day or six days a week, and each is signed "in" and "out" by the timekeeper.

All animals at Disneyland and their quarters are inspected regularly by officers of the SPCA.

On one day in the month of August, 1956, Disneyland's visitors took a total of 25,000 boat trips on the Park's seven Water rides.

Disneyland is so designed that an actual walking distance of $1\frac{1}{4}$ miles takes you through the Park.

72 prancing steeds race around the carrousel in Fantasyland. Ten shields on the spears supporting the covering canopy of the carrousel represent 10 of the founding knights of the Round Table. Among those represented: Sir Launcelot, Galahad, Perceval, Tristan, Gawain and Gareth, Bedevere, Lionel and Bors.

45 Security Officers are employed on a full-time basis at Disneyland with eight others on call to protect the Park and its guests.

Walt Disney sometimes sits at the throttle of the E. P. Ripley on the Santa Fe & Disneyland RR to take the little train on its trip around the Park.

Approximately 270,000 gallons of water per hour are circulated to create the seven multi-colored waterfalls seen in the Rainbow Caverns in Frontierland. This is at 40 foot head.

Wild life of North America have "discovered" Disneyland. Flocks of wild geese, mallards, and other birds have found Frontierland's River a safe retreat in their pilgrimages south. The birds pause to rest here, and in some cases stay on for several months.

The track footage for the train rides in the park comes to 11,006 feet. This includes the track around the Park for the freight and passenger trains, the Casey, Jr. train ride in Fantasyland, and the Mine train in Frontierland.

The vegetation in Adventureland represents most of the tropical areas of the world. Among the trees in this fascinating wonderland are Gunnera plants, Bod plants, Black stem trees of New Zealand, and a Bo-tree (Ficus Religiosa), a native of India, whose history goes back some 2500 years.

Fabulous Disneyland Hotel and Restaurants

A resort atmosphere is the keynote of the new $10 million Disneyland Hotel at Disneyland.

Designed and built for restful relaxation by Jack Wrather, Los Angeles and Texas industrialist and Mrs. Helen Alvarez of San Diego, the hotel, with the first eight units completed, has 202 rooms, each with either patio or sun-deck, a golf putting course, recreation area and children's playgrounds.

A patio arcade housing a shopping center with exclusive specialty and gift shops is also a feature of the hotel.

The Gourmet Restaurants, with coffee shop, cocktail lounges, and a dining area seating 1,000 patrons, overlook the hotel's lighted and terraced pools and orange groves. Breakfast, luncheon, dinner and late snacks are featured at the Gourmet, which is open seven days weekly. Private parties and banquets, accommodating from 25 to 500 are held on the spacious second floor of the air conditioned restaurant.

The main administration building of the hotel has a beauty shop, barber shop and four complete conference rooms for business meetings and conventions.

The luxurious Presidential Suite, comprising two bedrooms, two baths with dressing rooms, living room and foyer, and two patios, is also on the second floor of the main building.

A unique drive-in registration desk is provided at the main entrance of the hotel. Visitors and guests may register and drive directly to the private parking area adjacent to their rooms without entering the main lobby.

The rooms are designed and furnished so two children under 12 accompanied by parents may be housed in comfort and convenience in the single unit at no additional cost.

The pools are ideally situated midway between the hotel units and the main administration building and restaurants, providing ready accessibility to all points. One large Olympic-size swimming pool with sand area and cabanas dominates the landscape, while alongside it is another, smaller wading pool and sand-and-play area for the youngsters, and a putting green beyond.
