The various drawings of the Disney fanciful characters, such as MICKEY MOUSE, DONALD DUCK, etc., and the costumed characters are protected by a copyright and can only be reproduced by those licensed to do so. In addition, the various scenes within the WALT DISNEY WORLD Resort Complex are also protected by law, and photographs or graphics of those scenes cannot be used without the authorization of the Walt Disney World Co. Marketing Division. Authorization to use a copyrighted work may be obtained by sending a rough layout of the proposed material to our Marketing Division for its approval prior to publication. Once permission is obtained to utilize a copyrighted property, the following guidelines govern that use:

1) Authorization to use a copyrighted photograph or graphic is good for one (1) year only from the date of approval (unless a shorter term is specified by Marketing) and is limited to use in the approved media.

2) A copyrighted photograph or graphic, provided by Marketing, should not appear on the cover of your brochure unless it is used with other Central Florida attraction photographs to create a montage effect. This same rule applies to the inside of the brochure. In other words, do not use the authorized copyrighted work so predominantly as to give the public the impression that the Disney organization sponsors or endorses the main subject matter of your promotional material.

3) Marketing shall advise you of the copyright notice to be affixed to the lower right-hand corner of the approved photograph or graphic. The notice must be reproduced by you in the same form as provided. Example: © 1979 Walt Disney Productions

Special care should be taken to ensure that the copyright A notice is clearly legible.

If you have any questions regarding proper use of copyrighted properties, please do not hesitate to contact the Marketing Division at (305) 824-4040.
