MONOMOVER... OR, UH ...PEOPLERAIL?

...APRIL FOOLS!

It Takes People...

To Main Street Hostess and Fortune Teller ESMERALDA, meeting new people and predicting futures is a common occurrence.

Esmeralda is the resident teller of future truths on Main Street. She sits in front of the Penny Arcade, providing knowledge to hundreds of curious guests each day.

She began her fortune-telling career as a young girl. Her family used to manage a traveling gypsy show. To make ends meet during the off-seasons, she began dealing cards during village poker games.

Now, she has developed her skill with cards to such an extent that she can predict people's futures with one shuffling of the deck. One might think, however, that sitting in a booth (the same one everyday) reading fortunes might get a little boring. "Not so," she says. "I meet a lot of interesting men with bright futures." She also adds, "Most of the guests who approach me are quite respectable."

Those who know Esmeralda can attest to the fact that she's a solid citizen. As she puts it, "My mother always told me I came from good stock."

Besides enjoying her work here, she has had the good fortune to travel extensively, to act (she was once a contestant on the game show "Cardsharks") and write books on the subject of Fortune Telling. In fact, her latest, Lotsa Luck...You'll Need It, was a best-seller, just as she coolly predicted.

Clad in her green and pink bandanna, the lovely Esmeralda, with her jet-black hair and sensuous smile, continues to greet those who enter the Penny Arcade. She enjoys having a hand in people's futures. And hopefully, remaining at Disneyland is in her future, but only she knows.

For 26 years, Hostess TILLIE hasn't blinked because she's afraid she'll miss a talent scout. Still not discovered, Tillie doesn't give up and shows a great deal of devotion to her work at the Main Street Cinema box office. In fact, she holds a world record for selling the least amount of tickets in a straight 24-hour-period.

Many say when you're doing nothing it's tough to know when you're through. Others say Tillie is doing nothing but she's never through either. At least this gives her more free time than most. And she spends that time wisely-- she loves to read magazines and apparently without looking. Of course she's partial to page 50 and 51 of the January 1912 edition for Pearson's Magazine.

One of Tillie's closest friends, Mark Mc Dorman describes Tillie in his own words,

*Poor Old Tillie
Stiff as a board
Poor Old Tillie
She's cheap to afford.*

*Hair spun like gold
Brown staring eyes
A ticket from her nobody buys.*

*Men dream about her
As we sit here at work
Women all hate her
With that awful smirk.*

*She's heard my life story
From beginning to end
When I need lovin'
She's the first one to lend.*

*We love her the same
Even though she's a bore
For without poor Tillie
I wouldn't work anymore.*

Tillie is known to others for her never-ending smile and admirably, she never talks back to guests. She never complains and happily wears her warm crocheted shawl-- even during the hot summer months.

Tillie's background is quite a mystery but it is known she is always on the go and requires little sleep. Surprisingly, she still looks as young as she did on the first day she was employed.

She has a deep concern for those who are accused of taking their work home. However, Tillie has found a solution that works well for her-- she never goes home.
